President Barack Obama has done it again. Like Bill and Hillary Clinton before him, Obama seems to be taking every opportunity he can to talk about UFOs, aliens, and now Martians. In a phone call to NASA related to last week's landing of the Curiosity rover on Mars, Obama stated

"Someone asked me the other day if you had already found Martians. I told them we have to give you a little bit of time... If in fact you do make contact with Martians, please let me know right away," President Obama said, "because I've got a lot of other things on my plate, but I suspect that will go to the top of the list, even if they're just microbes."

The vast number of UFO related comments by Obama should be considered significant, as most Presidents of the past seem to have gone out of their way not to talk about the UFO subject.
